Richmond Stove Company Attaches Box Office Receipts at Academy of Music.

SPENDS NIGHT IN PRISON LICENSE ORDERED REVOKED NOT UP TO SPECIFICATIONS

Concern Did Not Get What It Was Promised.

On application of E. A. Rennolds, secretary-treasurer of the Richmond Stove Company, High Constable Wyatt yesterday attached the box office receipts at the Academy of Music to satisfy an alleged claim which the company held against the Educational Motion Picture Exchange, of New York, the amount involved being $100. While the Leath Theatrical Company, which operates the Academy of Music, is cited to appear in the Law and Equity Court on May 12, it is not a litigant, the contest being between the Richmond Stove Company and the picture men, who are exhibiting their films in the theatre. The High Constable, on behalf of the same complainants, also levied on the films. Since the famous Richmond pictures were first presented at the Academy on Wednesday afternoon, there has been more or less talk of attachment proceedings, due to the fact that many scenes from business houses, which advertised, were not up to specifications. Indeed, the interior views were so bad that they were eliminated on Wednesday night, the weeding-out process having continued from day to day.
